Sri Anil Pradhan, International Public School for Rural Innovation, Odisha

Sri Anil Pradhan is the son of former Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) officer.

Travelling 12 km on his cycle to school every day as a young student, Pradhan understood the value of education and more importantly, innovation, very early on in life. Traversing those uneven roads on his cycle from Baral village to Cuttack would often result in damage to his cycle, and finding innovative ways of fixing it was a daily affair. This is where his quest for innovation began, among solving other day-to-day problems.

Pradhan, a Civil Engineer, was part of the VSSUT Student Satellite team that constructed a satellite to monitor the Hirakud Dam—the longest major earthen dam in the world. He was also part of the team that designed a robot with the ability to climb electric poles and fix basic problems—a task wrought with danger for humans.

After successfully developing India’s first multipurpose student satellite, he found that anything can be done if constantly work on it.

Beyond these innovations, he also developed a device in university which could reduce the amount of electricity consumed by factories and residential buildings by 60%, and this innovation was listed by infrastructure major L&T as among the top seven student projects.

His achievements, including the establishment of IPSRI, earned him the 2018 National Youth Icon Award from the Government of India. He is also a “Mentor for Change” at Atal Tinkering Labs, the nationwide government-run centres for school students.

National Council of Science Museums appointed him “Innovation Mentor” at the Regional Science Centre in Bhubaneshwar, the youngest one.

His mother played a major role in setting up a school in a 2.5 acres belonged to his family. He converted this into Innovation school.

As the popular saying goes “education is a gift, it shouldn’t be a burden.” Pradhan is determined to facilitate that spirit and give these children from low-income households an education that actually means something.

Sri Ayush Prasad, IAS started his career as Assistant Collector of Osmanabad, after which he has appointed as the Assistant Secretary with the Expenditure
Department, Ministry of Finance. Presently, he is working as Assistant Collector of Pune with the additional charge of Project Officer - Ghodegaon with the Tribal Development Department.

Interestingly, four generations of Ayush’s family, including Ayush Prasad, have been into civil services in a row. Apart from his IPS father, his great grandfather (ICS during British rule) and grandfather (IAS) too had been Civil Servants, making the family perhaps the only one to achieve this rare feat. His father A M Prasad (IPS) is currently the ADGP in Karnataka State Intelligence Department, while his mother Dr Amita Prasad (IAS), is the Addl. Secretary in the Ministry of Water Resources, Government of India, and heads the clean Ganga mission. His younger sister Anusha is pursuing Law at Christ University, Bengaluru.

Ayush had earlier worked with TATA Consultancy Services (TCS) Innovation Labs where he was part of a team that developed four patents, including mobile wallets. He has also been part of Young India Fellowship (YIF) where he won full scholarship of Rs 12 lakhs and completed one-year programme in leadership and liberal arts from the University of Pennsylvania. He has also written for various media including All India Radio. Ayush also worked with the largest Financial Services Organisation – The State Bank of India Group as a Deputy Manager.

He initiated, 'Nela Nela Vennela' Giribalala Vidya Vignana Vikasa Karyakramam to bring tribal and Student friendly atmosphere in all Tribal Welfare Educational institutions, due to which dropout rates significantly reduced.

Especially, in tourism, an attempt was made to transform and ill-maintained old water body into a beautiful tourism spot by name NTR Adventure park by converging funds from 12 departments thus creating employment to Tribal youth. Apart from this, this park crated direct employment to 62 Tribal youth and became the biggest Tribal MSME in Andhra Pradesh, for which, he also received ‘Honorable Chief Minister’s Award for Excellence in Public Administration for the year 2018-19.
